FIVE LITTLE PUMPKINS

THINK ABOUT . . .

Your child may be learning to count, or it may be time to teach them ordinal numbers, or even subtraction. Whatever stage they're in, this is a fun, Halloween-themed activity you can use to practice! As you go throughout the activity, think about how you can use the LSL strategies of auditory closure and sabotage to check your child's understanding of numbers and ordinal numbers.

ACTIVITY

- 1- Lay out the pieces on a table with the pumpkins 1-5 (in order) "sitting" on the gate.
- 2- As you say the rhyme (similar to the rhythm and intonation of "Five Little Monkeys"), point to each pumpkin as it "speaks" and move the pieces according to what is happening in the song.
- 3- As you take away each pumpkin, count the pumpkins that are left with your child. Or, depending on their level, talk about how subtraction works – "When we have 5 and we take 1 away, how many do we have left?"
- 4- Continue until you finish the rhyme.

MATERIALS NEEDED:

- Pumpkins and gate printable
- "Five Little Pumpkins" rhyme
- Scissors

PREPARATION:

- 1- Print out the pumpkins and gate.
- 2- Cut out the pumpkins and the gate into individual pieces.
- 3- Become familiar with the "Five Little Pumpkins" rhyme. (*Optional: print the lyrics to the rhyme to have on-hand for the activity.)

VOCABULARY:

- Five
- Four
- Three
- Two
- One
- First
- Second
- Third
- Fourth
- Fifth

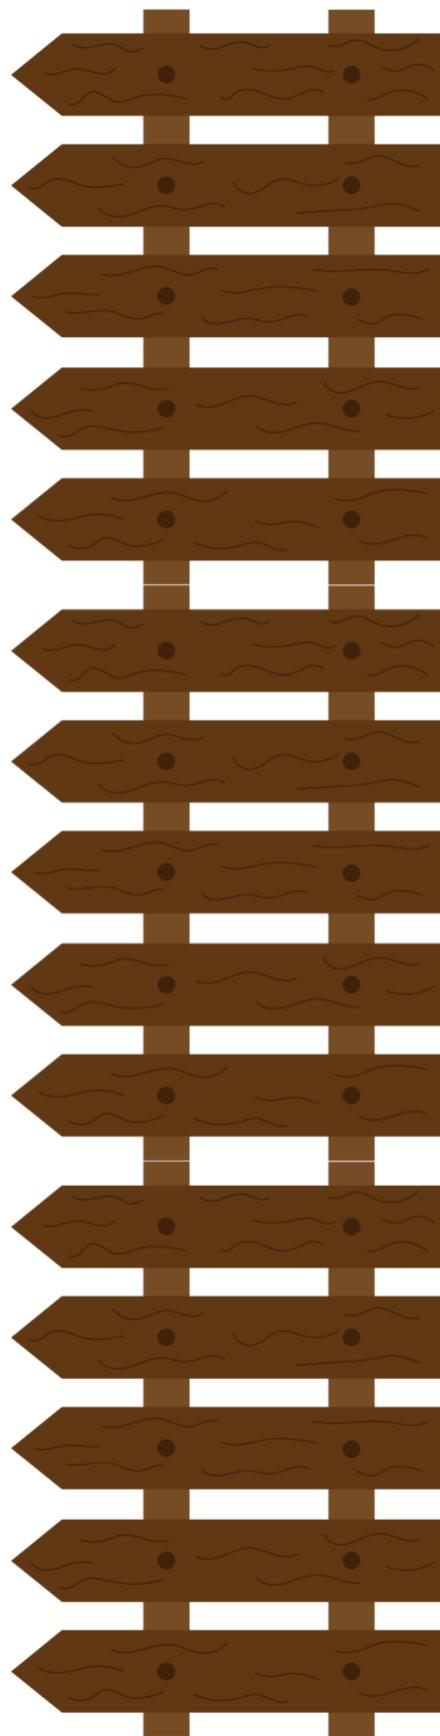

HELPFUL TIPS:

- If your child needs the support, count on your fingers for an added visual aid. Otherwise, avoid counting on your fingers to help your child listen and strengthen their auditory skills.
- Laminate the materials to help them last longer.
